Loss of MRT tunnelling a big negative

Loss of MRT 2 tunnelling leaves a huge void. In an unexpected turn of events, the federal government has cancelled the underground portion of the Mass Rapid Transit (MRT) Line 2, citing the inability to reach an agreement with the consortium of MMC-Gamuda. All unfinished underground work will be retendered through an international open tender. As at end-August 2018, the underground contract is 37% completed while the outstanding unbilled amount is c.RM5.5bn. While we expect larger contractors with reputable track records and strong balance sheets (like Gamuda) to emerge as winners when projects are eventually revived, this piece of news is a key negative and leaves a huge earnings void, compounding the loss of earnings from Gamuda's recent sale of its water concessionaire Syarikat Pengeluar Air Selangor Sdn Bhd (Splash) to the Selangor state government.

Where we differ. Our earnings are below consensus as we factor in the loss of earnings from Splash, new terms for Gamuda Water and loss of MRT 2 tunnelling. Our earnings forecast is also fully diluted for its warrant issue.

Potential catalyst: The most important catalyst for Gamuda and the sector as a whole is the revival of key infrastructure projects. Gamuda's strong reputation, based on work for MRT Line 1 and 2, as well as its appointment as project delivery partner (PDP) for the Penang Transport Master Plan (PTMP) will put it in the driver's seat when there is more certainty on government-related projects. The water division overhang has also been removed with the acceptance of Splash's takeover offer and new operations and maintenance agreement (OMA) terms for Gamuda Water Sdn Bhd.

Valuation:

Our new SOP-derived TP of RM2.98 assumes no contribution from MRT 2 tunnelling, some construction new wins in FY20F and discounts for its highway tolls.

Key Risks to Our View:

Faster implementation of projects. In our view, the new government's expedition of projects, revival of the PTMP and limitation on foreign participation will be positives for Gamuda.

WHAT'S NEW

MRT 2 tunnelling loss a negative surprise

MRT 2 tunnelling cancelled. The project accounts for the bulk of its order book and will further compound the earnings void from Splash.

Cutting earnings: We cut our FY19-20F earnings forecast by 19-24% to account for this cancellation, while we have already factored in the cost cutting for MRT2 above ground work.

Downgrade to Hold, lower TP of RM2,98. At a P/BV of 1.1x, valuations may appear cheap but the stock now trades at FY20F PE of 18x on a declining earnings trajectory.

Underground contract cancelled. In an unexpected turn of events, the federal government has cancelled the underground portion of MRT Line 2, citing the inability to reach an agreement with the MMC-Gamuda consortium. According to the Finance Minister, all unfinished underground work will be retendered through an international open tender. As at end-August 2018, the underground contract is 37% completed while the unbilled order book is c.RM5.5bn.

Above ground project cut in line with expectations. As for the above ground portion of MRT 2, the government announced that the total project cost will be cut by 23% or RM5.22bn. Savings will be realised through a reduction in cost and rationalisation in work scope without cancelling any of the above ground stations.

The new project cost is now RM17.4bn vs the original cost of RM22.6bn. The above ground portion has been 28% completed as at end-August 2018. Additionally, the project structure will be converted to turnkey (vs the previous PDP model). This effectively means that MMC-Gamuda will be the main contractor for the above ground portion, while the other above ground contractors (IJM, Sunway Construction, WCT etc) will be the subcontractors to MMC-Gamuda.

Dissecting the total project cost numbers. According to the Finance Minister, the MRT2 project was approved in February 2014 with an initial estimated cost of RM28bn. This did not include consultant fees, PDP fees, as well as interest and overhead cost for Mass Rapid Transit Corporation Sdn Bhd (MRT Corp) Corp. However, the project cost ballooned to RM56.93bn due to the extension of the line to Bandar Malaysia, a change in scope, depreciation of the ringgit and other factors. The overall cost comprised of RM39.3bn construction cost, RM6.18bn land acquisition cost, RM36m for feeder bus and depot cost, RM1.2bn in other costs, as well as RM9.84bn worth of interest expenses during construction.

Our view : The cancellation of the underground contract is a key negative for Gamuda and wipes out c.RM5.5bn worth of high margin work, which would have been crucial to ensure continuity in construction earnings growth in FY19-20F before PTMP starts to contribute.

At this juncture, we are unsure if retendering the contract through an international open tender makes sense in terms of costs and timing of completion. We understand that MMC-Gamuda won both MRT Line 1 and 2 tunnelling contracts via a Swiss Challenge procurement model, which gave it the first right of refusal for the job at the lowest bid. However, foreign contractors submitted less competitive bids and MMC-Gamuda did not exercise the Swiss Challenge.

The impact of the cancellation on the other above ground contractors under our coverage will not be so severe. In terms of percentage contribution to total outstanding order book - WCT (15%), Sunway Construction (10%) and IJM (10%).

Impact on earnings. We cut our FY19/20F earnings by 19%/24% to account for the removal of MRT 2 tunnelling contract from its order book. We had already accounted for the cost reduction for the above ground works.

Downgrade to Hold, new TP of RM2.98. We downgrade our rating on the stock to Hold (BUY previously) as we expect this piece of news to alter its near term earnings profile significantly and compound the loss of earnings from Splash. Gamuda now trades at FY20F PE of 18x on a declining earnings trajectory. Our new TP of RM2.98 assumes no contribution from MRT 2 tunnelling.

CRITICAL DATA POINTS TO WATCH

Key critical factors. The most critical factor for Gamuda is the revival of contracts by the new federal government. On a more micro level, our findings reveal that significant contract wins coupled with earnings growth are the main key share price drivers. As the dust settles, we expect larger contractors with reputable track records and strong balance sheets (like Gamuda) to emerge as winners, when projects are eventually revived. In our view, given Gamuda's strong design and engineering capabilities, it will be using the down time to explore and propose more relevant projects to the government. Greater transparency, less bureaucracy and potentially less foreign competition due to changes in government policies will be the long term trend in the sector

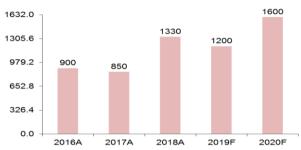

Clarity on government projects. The cancellation of the MRT 2 tunnelling project, which was a key anchor for outstanding order book, is a big negative. The new government has also cancelled/deferred two projects (high speed rail (HSR) and MRT 3) so far. The latter was crucial for visibility of Gamuda's new wins. The potential cancellation of the east coast rail line (ECRL) has no impact on Gamuda because it had already indicated that it was willing to forego this contract

MRT 3 to be revived. In our view, MRT 3 has to be revived eventually. It is crucial to ensure connectivity to the other two MRT lines and will drive ridership into the city. The project may be retendered at a later stage, with possible changes in alignment or a higher proportion of above ground works. The last indicative value for MRT 3 was RM40-45bn. 32km out of the 40km stretch would have been underground. At the onset of the entire MRT project's conceptualisation, Gamuda had an earlier proposal for MRT 3 which included 35% underground work. This proposal could potentially lower the cost of MRT 3 to RM20-25bn. Assuming a 35% underground portion, this would work out to RM7-8.75bn tunnelling portion. Gamuda with its tunnel boring machines and experience with MRT Line 1 and 2 will be a key beneficiary. It won MRT Line 1 and 2 tunnelling works without having to exercise the Swiss Challenge.

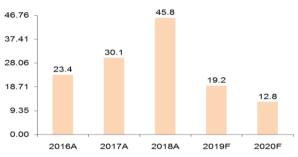

Penang Transport Master Plan (PTMP) project to kick off. Gamuda has a 60% stake in SRS Consortium, the PDP for this RM32bn project. RM16bn is allocated for the public transportation system and the balance RM16bn for land reclamation works. The contract value for the light rapid transit (LRT) portion is RM8bn. The next near term catalyst for Gamuda is the formalisation and approval for the PTMP. We understand that the federal government has given approval for the LRT project in principle. The next important milestone will be in 4QCY18 where Gamuda and its consortium partners for SRS Consortium will sign and finalise the PDP agreement. It was announced recently that the validity of the PDP agreement has been extended to August 2019. On top of this, the relevant federal government agencies are expected to approve the railway scheme for the LRT and environmental impact studies for Pan Island Link 1 and reclamation works. If this timeline is kept, we can expect some design works and tenders to be called in 1HCY19 and award of contracts in 2HCY19.

Appendix 1: A look at Company's listed history – what drives its share price? Gamuda's share price performance vs KLCI, Steel price and EPS

Source: Company, AllianceDBS

The key share price driver for Gamuda appears to be new contract wins and, to some extent, earnings growth. For the period until June 2016, there was some negative correlation with steel price, likely because raw material requirements for the KV MRT Line tunnelling contract was borne by the contractor.

Gamuda's share price performance vs contract wins

Gamuda's share price showed the most significant outperformance during the period between June 2012 and July 2013 (Period A). This was due to a combination of positive newsflow from the announcement of the MRT Line 1 tunnelling contract worth RM8.28bn in April 2012 and expectations of strong earnings growth in FY13. FY13 core net earnings grew by c.19% y-o-y stripping out the one-off arbitration charge. This also coincided with the conclusion of the 13th General Election.

From July 2013 onwards (Period B), Gamuda's share price was on a general downtrend until June 2014 given the lack of significant newsflow post the award of MRT Line 1. From June 2014 to March 2016 (Period C), we think the outperformance was led by a combination of the award of the PDP role for MRT Line 1 in November 2014, PDP for the Penang Transport Master Plan (PTMP) as well as the tunnelling package for MRT Line 2 worth RM15.47bn in March 2016.

Major contract wins for Gamuda since 2012:

April 2012 – Announcement on KV MRT Line 1 tunnelling contract worth RM8.28bn.

Nov 2014- Appointment as PDP for MRT Line 2.

August 2015 – Appointment as PDP for Penang Transport Master Plan.

March 2016 – Awarded tunnelling contract for KV MRT Line 2 worth RM15.47bn.

Source: Company, AllianceDBS

Gamuda's share price performance does not have any meaningful correlation with quarterly EPS delivery. We think this is because it manages investors' expectations fairly well. Even in 3Q13, when it reported a one-off provision for tribunal awards of RM113m, the share price did not de-rate significantly. Stripping this out, 9M13 net profit would have increased 14%.

Balance Sheet:

Manageable net gearing. Net gearing remained manageable at 0.57x as at 31 July 2018. Land bank purchases over the past few years include its maiden project in Toa Payoh, Singapore for $$345.9m (Gamuda has a 50% share), a small parcel of freehold land in Melbourne for AUD40m, an 18-acre land in Kota Kinabalu for RM100m, and a 257-acre parcel located just 2km from Kota Kemuning for RM392m.

Further land banking possible. Gamuda is still seeking to land bank further in choice locations despite the softening property market. Its recently announced new project Anchorvale Crescent in Sengkang, Singapore (gross development value (GDV) RM650m; SGD1,100-1,200 psf) is expected to do as well as Gem Residences, as it is designated as an Executive Condominium and not likely to be impacted by the property cooling measures.

Share Price Drivers:

Revival of large scale government projects. The most important catalyst for Gamuda is the revival of some of the more crucial government infrastructure projects such as MRT 3. In the long term and taking into account the changing landscape of the sector, Gamuda's reputable execution track record and strong balance sheet should help it emerge as a winner. This is because there will be greater transparency, less bureaucracy and potentially less foreign competition. When these projects are eventual revived by the new government, we expect the stock to still be the best proxy in the construction space.

Increased property sales. Gamuda's property pre-sales over the past few years have been driven by its overseas projects. This helped cushion the slowdown of local property sales. A revival in the local property market would be a catalyst for Gamuda.

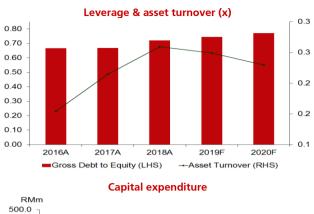

Key Risks:

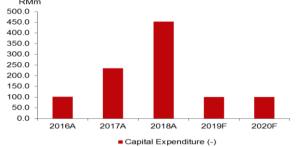

Macroeconomic factors and project uncertainties. An economic slowdown and lack of clarity on projects by the new government could adversely affect the group. Some infrastructure projects could be deferred or halted. This may result in slower order book replenishment.

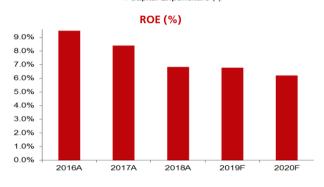

Slowdown in property market. The various tightening policies in the Malaysian property sector could reduce demand for properties (residential and commercial) in the near future.

Company Background

Gamuda's core business segments are engineering & construction, infrastructure concessions, and property development.
